

3 REASONS WHY YOU NEED A HARD-WORKING WEBSITE

1 CONFIRM CREDIBILITY

Before they hire you, they will visit your website. The design of your website must convince visitors that your business is professional, reputable and worthy of further attention.

2 SHOWCASE YOUR WORK

Show visitors that you have the experience necessary to tackle their next project with an online project photo gallery, capabilities page, or client testimonials.

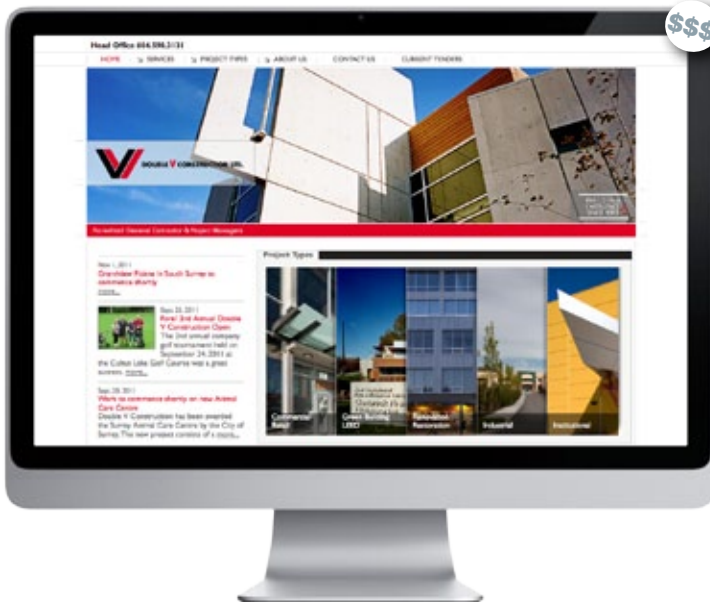

3 GATHER INFORMATION

Invite website visitors to contact you, request a quote, sign-up for special offers, subscribe to newsletters and begin the process of converting them into your new clients.

I'm impressed. Our new website gives us so much more functionality than we ever had before. We can easily publish new or completed project announcements, upload and share project tender information and even update our completed projects list in-house. By managing our website content in-house, we will be able to ensure our website remains relevant to our clients, prospective clients and sub-contractors for a long time.

After my first meeting with Honeycomb Creative, I knew that they understood my business that they could build a website that would work best for my company. I trusted in their web development advice throughout the project, and I am very happy I did. The new website is professional, easy to navigate and leaves our customers with the same high-level of confidence in our abilities as I have in Honeycomb Creative's.
