With four different business units and a multitude of product lines, our business is complex. Honeycomb Creative did a wonderful job of clearly representing our business areas and organizing the variety of information (MSDS, technical bulletins, brochures, warranties, design specifications, training videos, etc.) associated with each of the products and systems on our new website. They really took the time to go through each and every piece of information and placed it where it made sense and where our customers could easily find it. When they said they would take the time to understand our business, they really meant it.
